

Stephen Friedman Gallery

Londonist

The Biggest Exhibitions in London Right Now – Reviewed

Tabish Khan

20 March 2019

The Biggest Exhibitions In London Right Now - Reviewed

Welcome to our pick of the best London exhibitions to see right now — get your Spring dose of culture. We've roughly split the list by London regions to make it easier to navigate.

One of the quirkier works in the show.

PSYCHOREALISM: A baby sucks on the tail of a moustachioed tiger and a grotesque pig flies by in an exhibition on a pair of British Surrealists at Camden Arts Centre. In the adjacent exhibition

25—28 Old Burlington Street London W1S 3AN
T +44 (0)20 7494 1434 stephenfriedman.com

Stephen Friedman Gallery

Londonist

The Biggest Exhibitions in London Right Now – Reviewed

Tabish Khan

20 March 2019

contemporary Surrealist Jonathan Baldock keeps it equally playful with arms and lips jutting out of haphazardly constructed pillars. It's a double bill of quirky brilliance.

A Tale of Mother's Bones: Grace Pailthorpe, Reuben Mednikoff and the Birth of Psychorealism & Jonathan Baldock — Facecrime at Camden Arts Centre. Until 23 June, free. ★★★★★☆