Artnet

Artists and Arts Workers React to the Nail-Biting US Presidential Election on Social Media Brian Boucher and Eileen Kinsella 4 November 2020

'Good Luck, America': Artists and Arts Workers React to the Nail-Biting US Presidential Election on Social Media—See Their Posts Here

From Kim Gordon to Amy Sherald, here are the best art world reactions to election night and the as yet undecided presidential vote.

Image: Hank Willis Thomas tweeted this image of a billboard by the Guerrilla Girls, created for For Freedoms and installed in Wheeling, West Virginia. Photo by Alyssa Meadows, courtesy of For Freedoms.

The US has entered into yet another unprecedented presidential election, under the shadow of a global Covid-19 pandemic, and with a sitting president calling overnight for the counting of Americans' votes to stop.

On Tuesday, Election Day, as the polls reported a 10-point lead for former Vice President Joe Biden, the democratic nominee, many figures in the art world urged their social media followers to get to the polls. But as it became clear that the election would turn into a nail biter, with the possible "blue wave" turning into something more like a purple maelstrom, they started to express a more stressed-out #mood.

Artnet News rounded up some of the reliably insightful art world commentators, starting with some posts from Election Day and following up the day after.

3	justine4good 8,400 followers	View Profile
w v h u l w c l t l v v v c l t l v v v c l t l v v v c l t l v v v c l t t v v v c l v v c l v v v v v v v v v v v	want a dyke for president. I want a p th aids for president and I want a fa ce president and I want someone with alth insurance and I want someone with in a place where the earth is so sat olde about getting leukemia. I want a encident that had an abortion at sixte want a candidate who isn't the lesser is and I want a president who lost th the lower to aids, who still sees that to held their lower in their arms and o held their lower in their arms and o held their lower in their arms and one about getting, a trained who has str ne at the clinic, at the dww, at the ' wants someone who has spent the night i rviked rape. I want someone who has so want someone who has spent the night i rviked rape. I want someone who has be and the nirt, who respects sex, w ack woman for president. I want some oasdrems and has done drugs and, beer solf teeth and-mathight dow, someone who has to the bababab hopital food, someone wil disobedience. And I want to know ' wil dosbedience. And I want to know ' wil dosbedience. And I want to know ' wil to soible. I want to know thy we st arming somewhere down the line that a always & clown lakways a john and me hooker. Always a boss and never a worh More on Instagram	g for no grew urated a a m and of two neir in sst, scnew b no on sorted. in the in the sorted. in the sorted. in the sorted. in the i i i i i i i i i i i i i i i i i i i
0
∽ 677 I
	kes e4good
justii
	eonard I want a Dyke for president
	II 12 comments
	in 12 comments

Artist Justine Kurland, quoting a timeless artwork by Zoe Leonard, still wants a dyke for president!

Artnet

Artists and Arts Workers React to the Nail-Biting US Presidential Election on Social Media Brian Boucher and Eileen Kinsella 4 November 2020

petesouza 0 ♡ () ⊥ 174,717 likes join the club. (But 45 is no Ø Add a c Philip Key We

Pete Souza, a photographer during the Obama presidency, has been using his photos of 44 to poke fun at 45 for four years, and it seems he's not going to stop now.

Photographer Philip Montgomery posted a photo of a postal worker in a year when mail-in voting has become crucial-and the subject of unfounded conspiracy theories.

ര kaws o 3.1m fello Good morni #KAWS #CO view all 467 co 0

QÛ 1.848

Add a cor

Brian Donnelly, aka KAWS, shared one of his beloved Companions assuming the position of the year.

Artnet

Artists and Arts Workers React to the Nail-Biting US Presidential Election on Social Media Brian Boucher and Eileen Kinsella

4 November 2020

This is pretty fucking bonkers

4:22 AM · Nov 3, 2020

Author Kimberly Drew seemed to see what was coming.

As the White House erected barriers for protection against possible civil unrest in response to contested election results, the architecture-related meme circulating on Twitter? "Well, Trump finally got his wall."

 $\bigcirc$  11.3K  $\bigcirc$  3.8K people are Tweeting about this

Artist Man Bartlett pointed out that Ripley's Believe it or Not attraction in New York also boarded up:

Artnet

Artists and Arts Workers React to the Nail-Biting US Presidential Election on Social Media Brian Boucher and Eileen Kinsella 4 November 2020

As did the gallery Hauser & Wirth on New York's Upper East Side, as artist Joe Scanlan revealed:

As the Royal Academy London pointed out, the world is watching, and not necessarily seeing anything too flattering.

I bet Larry G that Trump would win and thought it just might be the best $100 I ever spent. Jury's still out but one could hope... 🙏

7

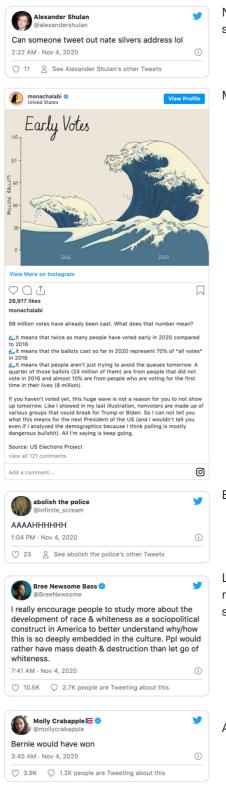

Artnet News columnist Kenny Schachter says he made a bet on the election with superdealer Larry Gagosian, with a Benjamin in the balance.

Artnet

Artists and Arts Workers React to the Nail-Biting US Presidential Election on Social Media Brian Boucher and Eileen Kinsella 4 November 2020

4 November 2020

New York dealer Alexander Shulan lol'd about how wrong the polls seem to have gotten it:

Mona Chalabi on early voting data:

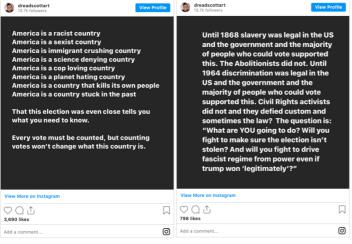

Edvard Munch's The Scream, always on point:

LaTanya Autry, of the advocacy initiative Museums Are Not Neutral, retweets activist Bree Newsome's commentary on how white supremacy plays into the election results:

Artist and activist Molly Crabapple repeats an old refrain from 2016:

Artnet

Artists and Arts Workers React to the Nail-Biting US Presidential Election on Social Media Brian Boucher and Eileen Kinsella 4 November 2020

Artist Dread Scott says the fact that this election was even close tells you what you need to know:

7,621 li herald

Add a com

williampowhida 3,036 followers

♡ () ⊥ 263 likes williampowhida George Floyd Protest (Decolonizat Watercolor on paper mounted on p 14 x 11 2020

Add a comment.

ARE WE THERE YET?! Voted for AUNTY #toooldforf #oldcouplesontiktok #sendhelp #vote2020 #momm #voteforchange #voteforbiden #kamalaharris #vp @

nala #

Ø

 $\Box$

Ø

Michelle Obama portraitist Amy Sherald and her husband danced in a TikTok video with matching hoodies that say "Voted for Aunty":

Artist William Powhida posted a watercolor from a George Floyd protest this past summer:

Artnet

Artists and Arts Workers React to the Nail-Biting US Presidential Election on Social Media Brian Boucher and Eileen Kinsella 4 November 2020

And a watercolor of Kamala Harris:

Artist Korakrit Arunanondchai says "Vote him out" with an image of Trump in flames

New Yorker cartoonist Liana Finck has a "twist" on Trump's infamous "Grab them by the pussy" quote:

Artnet

(a) kimletgord

C C C 21,313 likes kimletgordon The French versio view all 373 comm

Artists and Arts Workers React to the Nail-Biting US Presidential Election on Social Media Brian Boucher and Eileen Kinsella 4 November 2020

Artist Alexis Rockman showed a Norman Rockwell "coin toss" painting (we hope not!):

Former Sonic Youth star and artist Kim Gordon thinks Trump is a "looser" which she says is "the French version":

Arts journalist Vivienne Chow brings an astrological view:

Artnet

Artists and Arts Workers React to the Nail-Biting US Presidential Election on Social Media Brian Boucher and Eileen Kinsella

4 November 2020

Artist Hank Willis Thomas posts an image of a Guerrilla Girls billboard, created for his For Freedoms project:

Belgian collector Alain Servais tweets a drawing illustrating that, even if Trump didn't get his wall with Mexico, he certainly got one that divides America.

Artist David Shrigley summed up the mood as it became clear the results might take days to shake out.

25-28 Old Burlington Street London W1S 3AN T +44 (0)20 7494 1434 stephenfriedman.com

Artnet

Artists and Arts Workers React to the Nail-Biting US Presidential Election on Social Media Brian Boucher and Eileen Kinsella

4 November 2020

Artist Deborah Kass predicts another impeachment if the White House stays in Trump's hands, but the Senate goes blue.

<page-header>

Curator and White Columns director Matthew Higgs sends up a wish,

courtesy of a Barbara Kruger artwork:

Artnet

Artists and Arts Workers React to the Nail-Biting US Presidential Election on Social Media Brian Boucher and Eileen Kinsella 4 November 2020

Artist Hank Willis Thomas's newest project, the Wide Awakes, has a clear message:

And, finally, you didn't think you were going to get out of here without a Kanye tweet, did you?