

Stephen Friedman Gallery

Time Out
Ged Quinn
19 November 2019

Time Out

Ged Quinn

Ged Quinn 'Rest On The Flight Sundogs' (2019) © Ged Quinn. Image courtesy of the artist and Stephen Friedman Gallery, London

Time Out says

According to European folklore, inhaling the pollen of the linden tree will ensure you have sweet dreams. Ged Quinn resurrects this mythology in his painting 'Bloodstream Sub Tilia' set in the area near Nuremberg. The Cornwall-based artist's latest collection of paintings also reference and build on traditions in other ways, in particular the bucolic, hill-rambling concept of the pastoral once loved by William Wordsworth and other Old Romantics.

Venue name: Stephen Friedman

Venue website: www.stephenfriedman.com

Venue phone: 020 7494 1434

Address: 11 Old Burlington St
London
W1S 3AQ

Transport:
Tube: Oxford Circus

Price: Free