Sarah Ball

Sarah Ball's meticulously rendered portraits explore themes of gender and identity. Demonstrating an acute sensitivity to the psyche of her subjects, she emphasises physical characteristics that define how we outwardly portray ourselves to the world.

Ball uses source material such as newspaper cuttings, archival photographs and social media to inform her portraits. Often depicting people who celebrate self-expression and contest traditional binary norms, Ball highlights physiognomy, hairstyles, clothes, jewellery and make-up that reveal the idiosyncrasies of her anonymous, often unknowing sitters. Set against flat planes of colour and confined within closely cropped compositions, the artist lends the people within her work a surreal, timeless quality by denying the viewer any form of narrative about their identity.

Ball will have a solo exhibition at Longlati Foundation, Shanghai in 2025, following a solo presentation of new paintings at Stephen Friedman Gallery, New York in February 2024. The gallery presented its first major show of Ball's work at Frieze New York in May 2021 and her first solo exhibition in London in January 2022, accompanied by an illustrated catalogue. In this project, the artist realised portraits on an unprecedented scale, resulting in a newly abstracted visual language. A selection of drawings was presented for Art Basel Hong Kong Kabinett's sector in 2023, which amplified this pared-back quality through the fluid, colour-rich medium of chalk pastel.

Recent group exhibitions include 'Contemporary collecting', British Museum, London, UK (2024); 'A Living Collection', Hepworth Wakefield, West Yorkshire, UK (2023); 'Being In the World', Long Museum, Shanghai, China (2022); 'I'm stepping high, I'm drifting, and there I go leaping', Xiao Museum of Contemporary Art, Rizhao City, Shandong Province, China (2022); 'From Near and Far: Collage and Figuration in the Contemporary Age', Stephen Friedman Gallery, London (2022); 'Space for Imaginative Actions', Kunstmuseum Bonn, Bonn, Germany (2022); 'Friend Zone', Half Gallery, New York (2021) and 'I See You', Victoria Miro, London, UK (2020).
